Roommate Groups

The online housing application allows students to create groups of potential roommates. The steps below describe how to add members to your roommate group.
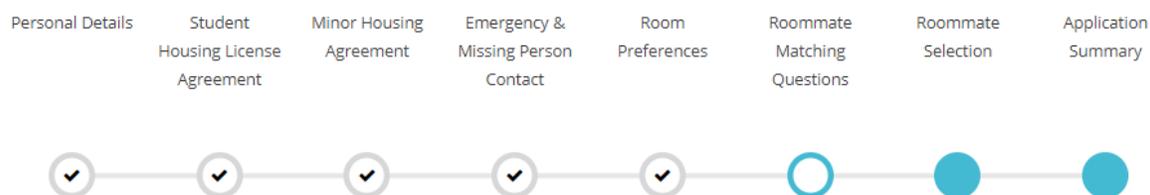

Some facts to keep in mind:

- You can only be a member of one group.
- Once you send or accept a request, you will not be able to join any other group, but you can still add members to your group.
- Once you send a request to a potential roommate, that person will need to accept your request in their application.
- You cannot have a multi-gender roommate group unless you have an approved Inclusive Housing application.
- Anyone in the group has the ability to add other members to the group.
- Any individual in the group can serve as proxy and assign each other during room selection.
- You can leave a group at any time unless you are the group creator.
- You can change who the Group Leader is should the original Group Leader decide to leave the group.

Why Groups?

When the time comes to select a room, any member of the group (ideally the member with the best time slot) can assign other members of the group. You may or may not be assigned by your friend to a room. It is advised that students be in contact with group members and that requests to join groups are confirmed. Only verified groups will be able to complete the housing selection process.

Roommates

On this step you will be able to create a group of potential roommates. You will also be able to see pending requests that you may have sent or received. If you know your friend's Web Screen Name (found on their application) you can start creating a group by clicking "Search for Roommates by Details." As more members are added to the group you will be able to see all the group members on this page.

Accepting Requests

Potential roommates that have requested to be in your group or that you have requested to be roommates with will appear under the Roommates Page. Here you will be able to accept or decline a roommate request.

Accepted roommates will appear under the Group Members section.

Leaving a Group

You can leave a group at any time, unless you are the group creator, and create or join another group by clicking "Leave Roommate Group" on the Roommates Page. The option to leave will appear once you are part of a group.

Roommate Search

If you don't currently have a roommate in mind, the online Housing Application allows students to search for potential roommates.
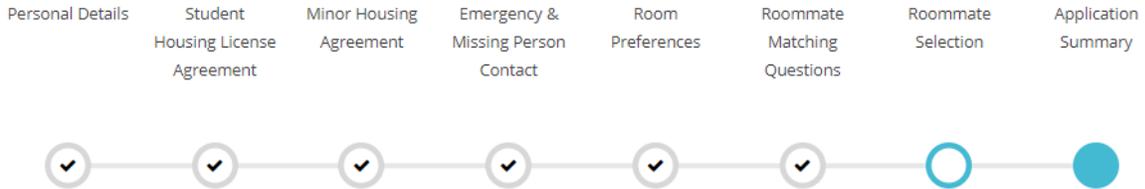

Some facts to keep in mind:

- Suggested Roommates uses the previously answered personality preference to determine how compatible you may be. If this portion of the application was completed by someone other than the student, it could cause poor compatibility down the line.
- We recommend looking for roommates with an 85% match or more for optimum compatibility.
- Applications are submitted regularly. You're able to return to this page and look for additional matches whenever you'd like.

Suggested Roommates

Selecting Suggested Roommates will bring you to a page that shows you potential matches. From this page, you can add a roommate to a group. This will send a request to the potential roommate to review. You can also send the roommate messages through the portal to learn more about them.
